

Transforming Health Together

ISGlobal Annual
Report 2025

Defining moments of 2025

The Cost of Defunding

We estimated lives saved by international aid in the first two decades of the century and modelled the human cost of funding cuts, elevating the global debate on health financing.

From the Womb

We provided solid evidence that the health impact of air pollution starts very early in life.

Liver Health in Focus

We're shaping a global public health agenda—grounded in equity, informed by data, and enriched by engagement.

Earlier, Faster, Easier

We advanced innovative tools to improve detection of high-burden diseases in vulnerable populations.

“2025 has been a year of intense geopolitical tension, eroding the multilateralism and cooperation that global health depends on. Within this landscape, ISGlobal’s research has continued to generate robust evidence to inform policy and practice. A key priority this year has been to strengthen how our research translates into societal impact.”
